

Processing all teh Files in Directory

[Cross-posted from ICanHazDataScience]

Okay. So we've talked a bit about getting set up in Python, and about how to read in different types of file (cool visualisation tools, streams, pdfs, apis and webpages next, promise!). But what if you've got a whole directory of files and no handy way to read them all into your program.

Well, actually, you do. It's this: